LOCAL MATTER.

E. C. WOODSON, City Editor.

PREMIUM LIST.—We regret not having been able to give the premium list in this issue of our paper, which is not our fault. The books from which it could only be obtained were occupied by the clerks all day yesterday, in the distribution of the premiums to parties leaving the city.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

A large number of Fair visitors still remain in the city.

Granville Superior Court commences tomorrow.

Read the new announcements in today's issue of G. F. Stronach & Bro.

Hon. F. E. Shober, Hon. James M. Leach, Hon. Mat. W. Ransom, etc. in attendance upon the State Fair the past week.

Our streets yesterday presented somewhat their usual appearance, the majority of the visitors to the late Fair having returned to their homes.

A fair cape was lost Saturday night between Tucker Hall and Martin street east of Wilmington. Five dollars will be paid for its return to this office.

A correspondent writing from this city last week, says: "Raleigh is improving rapidly; new buildings are going up in various quarters of the city, and great business activity is apparent."

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend a series of "hops" to be given at the Mansion House, Charlotte during fall (next) week. Our young friend Johnstone Jones, the handsome editor of the Observer is one of the managers.

We have no doubt but that the suggestion made at the agricultural meeting on Friday night, to raise a sufficient amount of money to arrange suitable grounds for the holding of the State Agricultural Fair will be acted upon.—We hope to see it done.

The editor of the Charlotte Observer writing from this city concerning the Fair here, says: "The fair here is a very successful one, and the people are very much interested in it. We have never seen a finer looking body of men."

A man stopping his paper, wrote to the editor: "I think folks ought to spend their money for paper, my dad did, and everybody else. He was the intelligent man in the country, and had the smartest family of boys that that ever dugged fathers."

The block of Warren county granite, a part of the monument that was erected by the citizens of that county over the grave of Miss Mary Lee, the daughter of General R. E. Lee, who died at Jones Springs during the war, was on exhibition at the State Fair and attracted much attention.

Brown's Georgia Cotton Gin, entered by G. F. Stronach & Bro., won the first premium at the State Fair. Considering the number on exhibition and the ability and fitness of the committee, it speaks well for the superiority of this Gin. They are advertised by the Messrs. Stronachs.

The Wilmington Star, alluding to the recent meeting of the State Agricultural Society in this city, says: "The Society has been discussing the proposition to remove the Fair from Raleigh. The propriety of this step is questionable. But the Raleigh people ought to do more for the Fair, in order to retain it."

POMEROY SNEADH CONCERT COMPANY.—This excellent Operatic troupe gave another charming entertainment at Metropolitan Hall Saturday evening. The audience was small but select. The music was far superior to any ever before known on the Raleigh stage, and but one opinion of the great excellence of the concert was expressed by the appreciative audience.

During the entertainment a number of our leading citizens, surprised and mortified at the small house, consulted together and resolved to show their appreciation of the merits of the concert by offering the manager a bonus of 200 seats if they would remain till Monday.

To the satisfaction of many others present, Mr. DeLeon promised to remain over Monday night.

We regret that lack of space prevent our giving a detailed account of the concert. Suffice it to say, that the troupe are entitled to a large house, and it is to be hoped that our citizens will show their appreciation of first-class talent by filling every seat in Metropolitan Hall tomorrow night.

RALEIGH, N. C. SUNDAY MORNING, OCT. 20, 1872.

NO. 169.

AN INTERESTING MEETING AND DISCUSSION.—We publish with pleasure the following interesting sketch of a meeting of the Agricultural Society in this city on Friday night:

HALL OF HOUSE REPRESENTATIVES.

Friday Evening, Oct. 18, 1872.

The Society met at the time appointed.

The President, Thomas M. Holt, in the chair.

The Secretary read the proceedings of the previous meeting, which after being amended, were approved.

Capt. Thigpen asked consent to correct an erroneous impression produced by his remarks, at the last meeting, with regard to the parsimony and seeming indifference of certain merchants and property holders in Raleigh, in their contributions to the State Fair, and wanted it distinctly understood that his speech did not apply to any particular person.

Q. Busbee in reply to an enquiry concerning original essays on agriculture in North Carolina, said he had some papers on agriculture, that there were some on file in the State Library, and that there were persons in various parts of the State who had original essays on the subject of Agriculture, dating back to 1819, who would, if applied to, place them at the disposal of the society for publication.

On motion of Hon. D. M. Barringer:

Resolved, That the Executive Committee cause the Sec'y to make out a correct list of the members of this Society (Life and Annual) and to have bound all pamphlets and copies of the proceedings of the Society that may be found. Adopted.

Hon. D. M. Barringer wished to know if the Secretary had prepared a correct list of the members, life and annual.

The Secretary was sorry to say he had not, that his list was very incomplete—because those who, from time to time had sold tickets to annual members had not furnished him with the names, and that it was his impression that it was the duty of the Corresponding Secretary to keep the list, that the late W. Whitaker had done so.

Mr. Litchford said the Federal army had destroyed the papers and list of members in Whitaker's hands.

The Secretary was requested to ask through the press who had been members, and that they report their names to him.

On motion of W. C. Kerr, Resolved, That the Secretary furnish the proceedings of the Society to the Reconstructed Farmer, also the essays of Dr. Hunter on clover and grasses, for publication.

T. F. Lee, Esq., suggested that in view of the additional labor imposed on the Secretary, that his salary be increased to $200.

The Secretary expressed his appreciation of Mr. Lee's remarks in his behalf, and the proposal he made, but advised that in the present depleted state of the Treasury, that no change be made until the treasury was replenished.

There being no special business of committee to report, and it being the last meeting of the present session, by general consent the Society resolved itself into a committee of the whole to hear any remarks from the members, calculated to infuse new life and renewed activity in promoting its welfare.

Mr. Len Adams expressed a wish to know the amount of cash received during the present Fair, amount requisite to pay all due for premiums awarded, general expenses incident to the Fair and its former indebtedness.

The President informed him that, for want of proper data and by reason of bills not rendered, it was impossible to furnish the information at this meeting.

Alex. Creech, of Raleigh, made a very practicable speech, in which he evinced a most lively and becoming interest in the future prosperity of the Society, and closed by saying, that his time and money, to the extent of his ability, was at the disposal of the Society in accomplishing any plan looking to a better location near Raleigh for the Fair, and erecting buildings of a character which would reflect credit upon the Society and city of Raleigh in particular, and as an earnest of his sincerity, he would be one of one hundred to pay into the Treasury $50,000, or one of fifty to give $25,000.

The Superintendent, J. J. Litchford, said in reply to an allusion made by Capt. Thigpen, to the Society's indebtedness to the bank, and secured by the signatures of the officers of the Society and the Executive Committee, that the receipts of the several Fairs had uniformly paid the expenses thereof, but that the debt had been incurred soon after the war, in putting the grounds and buildings, stalls and fence in good repair.

Mr. Len Adams said that while Raleigh should do her whole duty and contribute an amount for the use of the Fair, commensurate with the great advantages she derives from it, he felt assured that all the life, and very many of the annual members in other parts of the State, would respond heartily and cheerfully to any appeal which might be made to promote the welfare and efficiency of the Society.

Capt. Thigpen criticised the conduct of the officers, and those who had managed the affairs of the Society with neglect and inefficiency, by reason of which, the Society was expiring, and could not make a debit and credit statement of its transactions.

Mr. J. J. Litchford said that those who sneeringly called ours a poor State Fair, were ignorant of the fact, that after a careful analysis of the premiums awarded in the State Fair, in all the Southern States so far as he had noticed, and all the Northern States, that not one paid out so large an amount for premiums in cash as did the North Carolina State Fair; that while it was true, some of the Fairs in the Southern States offered $500 for the best bale of cotton, the money was raised and paid by merchants, as an advertisement and in the interest of their business; that in looking over 50 pages of a splendidly printed catalogue of a Northern State Fair, $2 was the highest prize offered; that in nearly every instance a Bronze Medal was awarded. He said, further, that no one could say that they ever brought to our Treasurer a certificate for a premium, in cash, which was not promptly paid. That it was true there had been some delay in the delivery of medals awarded, but that it was unavoidable, owing to the long time necessary in getting a suitable die, but that the medals were daily expected, and for all he knew, might be in the Express Office.

L. Adams was gratified to hear Mr. Litchford's speech. He hoped in future greater liberality would distinguish the contributions made in the interest of the State Fair. That to secure this, the people at home and throughout the State must be informed of what had been done and what we were now attempting to do, that now our people were more able than heretofore, that the same farmers in Wake, who made from 8 to 10 bales of cotton before the war, now made from 50 to 100 bales, because of the great improvement in agricultural implements; and he again insisted on informing the people of what we had done and were doing.

Hon. D. M. Barringer said that other State societies distributed freely the proceedings of their operations, and that there was wisdom in Mr. Adams' suggestion.

Mr. Battle appreciated all that had been said, and told the members that a want of money had denied the Society the publication of the valuable essays read at her annual meetings, and all the facts of interest to the masses, which were in possession of the Society. Then the rule observed during his administration was to pay premiums first, borrow money rather than any should be disappointed, and hence the publication of much valuable matter had been pre-terminated.

T. F. Lee counseled unanimity, and oneness of purpose. All must put their shoulders to the wheel, and work earnestly and persistently, know no such word as fail, and success would follow that would gladden the hearts of all who loved the glorious Old North State.

Major R. S. Tucker, of Raleigh, was very glad the remarks made by Captain Thigpen and others had elicited information which would place the merchants of Raleigh, and the property holders of Raleigh, where they are always found in case of emergency, viz: ever ready and willing to go forward with the utmost alacrity in any enterprise calculated to promote the general good of its citizens; that the merchants were ready to co-operate liberally in making the Fair what it should be, the pride of the State, and all other district and county fairs subordinate to its growth and usefulness.

That he had for years given his health and strength as a working member of the Executive Committee to promote its welfare, and was still willing to contribute his full share. He did not approve of some things said and done. He had declined sending articles from his store to the fair from a principle peculiar to his views of propriety. He did not want a prize for something made by others than himself. Nor did he approve of contributing to irresponsible parties, who might present a subscription list to raise a citizens' purse, or any other fund, through such channels. But he never refused to contribute liberally, when properly approached by the Executive Committee, or their authorized agent.

Mr. Tucker reminded Sheriff Lee that Charlotte had helped from North Carolina, in sending exhibitions in Mechanical and Agricultural improvements. That he had heard as one reason given why our mechanics refused to send specimens of their workmanship and ingenuity to our State Fair was that they had been ignored in the selection of judges, and that men unacquainted with mechanism were substituted. That there was a class ever ready to disparage Raleigh.

Capt. Lee said that he did not belong to the latter class; that very many of the citizens would testify to the fact that he had spent his time and money freely in developing all the resources of Raleigh to the extent of his ability.

Mr. Litchford said he felt constrained to correct the erroneous impressions made on Major Tucker's mind by mechanics. Extraordinary exertions had been made to select the most competent judges; that a correspondence had been kept up by the Executive Committee with prominent men in all parts of the State, asking them to designate the most suitable persons in their vicinity who would attend our Fairs and act as judges, and that as a general thing but few of those solicited ever attended, pleading either the want of means or time to spare from their vocations; hence, we had to select from those on the grounds, and a careful examination would show that the charges were untrue and unjust, and that mechanics were ably and fully represented, and that persons were selected in all the departments with reference to their fitness alone.

Major Tucker said he knew of the difficulties, in securing suitable judges from four years experience on the Executive Committee, but he had felt constrained to advert to the unfitness of some of the so-called judges, by the declaration of certain mechanics in our city, who had told him the reason why they had not contributed specimens of their skill was the practice of ignoring mechanics as a class from prominent positions, and that he desired them to be placed on the same footing with other departments, represented at the Fair. He playfully alluded to the fact, that Father McNamara had given expression to his interest in the Fair by securing some of the choicest products of his little farm, and among other things, a gentleman's Cashmere Goat, of unusual size and beauty, and whose value was enhanced because it was the gift of a friend, and that said Father McNamara had been greatly distressed this afternoon by having his pet goat returned to him from the Fair, a sheep; that $3 had been offered for the best Buck Goat, and the Committee had voted $3 for the best Buck Sheep. The allusion to the goat produced prolonged merriment and humorous speeches.

Mr. J. F. Taylor entertained the Society by giving a history of the difference between a gentleman Goat and gentleman Sheep, and said it would be improper to call either by the well-known cognomen of Buck, and he insisted on the proper pronunciation of Goat. It was go-at and not sounded gote.

Father McNamara insisted that Buck Goat was correct, and that had the reward been offered for a male sheep, the reward would have read for best Ram. That he was truly mortified to have his Goat returned as a Sheep, and insisted that he was not a sheep but a genuine Cashmere Goat, as seen by his form and the odor emitted from him.—That he could smell him at a distance of one hundred feet; and such a smell no other animal had. He said the goat was the gift from a friend, that the little orphan boys whom he had in his industrial school (very poor children) wanted a little pocket money, and as $3 were offered for the best Buck, he encouraged them to take him along with the products of the farm (which he sent to show his deep interest in the Fair) the said goat. That the little fellows knew $3 were being offered for best Buck, that no other Buck being on exhibition, the disappointment was very great to them. They had, perhaps, estimated the relative share each would receive of the prize.

Col. Heck said that the committee did not contemplate giving a reward for a single He Goat, but for a pair of goats, and that the committee on goats asked advice, and as the goat referred to was unusually fine, a discretionary premium was awarded him. That the misunderstanding arose from the difference of opinion as to what constituted a Buck.

T. F. Lee said we had had considerable merriment over the goat; the night was advancing, and it was time to proceed to business, time was precious and must be improved.

Col. Heck, A. M. McPheeters and J. J. Litchford defended the Society as to charge of ignoring mechanics, or any other class, in the selection of officers and judges, and read from the list of names a large number of distinguished mechanics, whose valuable services had been given to the present and our previous fairs.

Captain Thigpen acknowledged he had done but little that he had been so severely whipped, that he would be very careful hereafter how he expressed himself about the State Fair and its management, and moved that the officers and executive committee be acquitted of all charges. Unanimously adopted amid considerable merriment and good feeling.

Mr. Battle said he must repeat a statement made by him on Tuesday evening for the benefit of those who were absent on that occasion. That the executive committee had been anxiously looking for more suitable grounds, with a view of erecting more suitable buildings thereon, but had failed to procure a new site by the refusal of those who had grounds that were suited to our wants, or other causes, and hence no appeal had been made to the citizens of Raleigh to improve the present grounds, and that therefore the citizens of Raleigh were not guilty of the charge of indifference to the Fair. It was regarded as a waste of money to make any improvement on the present Fair Grounds.

Capt. Lee said Camp Mangum, 2 or 3 miles west of Raleigh, on the Chatham and North Carolina Railroads, was the most desirable place for the Fair grounds. That the difficulty as to title was removed by a recent sale made by him as Sheriff of Wake county, and that he had heard that Dr. Hawkins, President of the R & G R, had said that his Road would contribute $2,000, or $3,000 if the Fair was located at Camp Mangum. Capt. Lee said that the reason why citizens and mechanics had not sent specimens of their workmanship to our Fair was because of the wear and tear in getting machinery to our present grounds, and their exposure. But if the railroad penetrated the Fair grounds, as it would do at Camp Mangum, contributions for exhibition would go immediately from the cars into the Department assigned them, and very many would then be glad to send machinery and other articles.

The Secretary called on the members to respond to Mr. Creech's proposition. Col. Heck said he would be one of either class Messrs. Adams, Tucker, Lee and others, thought it best to locate the grounds, estimate the cost thereof, and the improvements needed, and then call on the citizens, who would most heartily respond. President Holt felt most keenly the responsible position he had assumed, but relied on the liberality of all interested, here and elsewhere, to stand by him, and co-operate in his plans.

Prof. Kerr said Mr. Creech had struck the key note, begin at Raleigh for help, that there was danger ahead, his position enabled him to know the estimate of prominent men, and unless the citizens of Raleigh responded liberally, the State Fair would become a rotating fair. Get the money first and then you would know what sort of grounds and buildings to provide.

On motion of Col. Heck, the thanks of the Society were tendered Gen. Cox for his admirable and instructive speech, and that he be requested to furnish a copy for publication to the Reconstructed Farmer.

The usual resolution of thanks to the Ladies, the Marshals and Rail Roads for their assistance in making the Fair a success was passed.

On motion, the Society adjourned sine die.

THOS. M. HOLT, Pres't.

P. F. PESCUD, Sec'y.

AMUSING INCIDENT OF THE FAIR!!

—ODORIFEROUS GOAT STORY!—Visitors to the Raleigh Fair must have noticed a specimen of the Goat tribe, occupying a stall near the southeast corner of the grounds. A finer representative of his stock could not be selected. He displayed branching horns that rolled over his shoulders and like the oak projecting over his native mountains. This proud buck Goat resides about a mile from our Capitol, on the grounds known as "St. James", the home of Rev. Father McNamara.

The Father has some little boys residing with him at his Industrial School, where he teaches them various industries, whereby they can procure a livelihood. Wishing to send his pupils to the Fair, the Father entrusted to their care his magnificent buck Goat, and had his Goatship regularly entered at the office of the Superintendent. For four days the buck attracted much attention. On one occasion he butted down his pen, and marched bravely through the crowd, stepping gravely to the sound of Ruf. Stanley's Brass Band. Consternation seized on boys and ladies, and it took two stalwart policemen to pound the goat, and to say "hold! the Fair is over. The joke aritheth. Father McNamara and his boys demand the eight dollar premium expected for the best buck Goat. "Well, Mr. Superintendent," said the clergyman, "My boys would like that premium for their Goat." "Goat!" exclaimed Mr. Litchford, "it is not a Goat." "Pray, then, what is it?" said the clergyman. "Why," said Mr. L., "it is a sheep—your have been awarded a three dollar prize for a sheep." "Why, dear Mr. Litchford," said the Father, "we entered a Goat at this Fair, and not a sheep—I do not own a sheep." "Well," said the Superintendent, "your Goat is a sheep, and we have awarded it a prize." "We will not accept your prize for a sheep," Mr. Litchford, said the clergyman, "and we will take him away forthwith, lest perhaps in your hands he may change his marks and become a cow!" One of the pupils seized the rope, and led away his Buck, and a thousand nostrils then and there testified that "Bill" smelled like a thorough bred Buck Goat, and exhibited, moreover, all the qualifications entitling him to the honors of his profession.

OUR CHURCHES TO-DAY.—Divine services will be held at the following Churches to-day, (Sunday.) Strangers and others in the city are earnestly and cordially invited to attend. Gentlemen ushers will be present to conduct visitors to pews which are always free:

Edenton Street Methodist Church, Edenton street, Rev. A. W. Mangum, officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

Baptist Church, corner Salisbury and Edenton streets, Rev. T. H. Pritchard, D. D. officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M.

Christ's (Episcopal) Church, Wilmington street, Rev. R. S. Mason, D. D. officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 3 o'clock P. M.

Presbyterian Church, corner Salisbury and Morgan streets, Rev. Mr. Hansen, D. D. officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

Person Street Methodist Church, Person street, Rev. Mr. Raven officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Father McNamara, there will be no services in the Catholic Church. Sunday School and Society meeting will be held at the usual hour.

Hon. F. B. Satterthwaite.—We regret to learn that a few days since the Hon. F. B. Satterthwaite, of Beaufort County, was quite ill, having been attacked with congestive chill, and doubts were entertained of his recovery. Mr. Satterthwaite is one of the most eloquent and forcible public speakers in the State, a man of great power and intellect, and his loss at this time of his States need, could not well be repaired. We sincerely hope he may long live to give cheer and comfort to his people of East, in whose interest and behalf he has always been ready and willing to lend a helping hand.

HARRY MCCARTHY TO-NIGHT.—This favorite troupe will make its appearance at Tucker Hall to-morrow night, and it is needless for us to say that there will be a full house. The great versatile powers of Harry McCarthy have become national, and his reputation is too good to need any commendation at our hands. All who desire to see a good performance will visit Tucker Hall during the next three nights.

TUCKER HALL.—This hall was again filled last night to witness the closing performance of the Rose and Harry Watkins troupe, which leave here to-day for Norfolk. Their success here the past week has been unparalleled.

AS IT SHOULD BE.—Yesterday evening at 5 o'clock, we, the local, received a telegram from Jacob Parker, of Warrenton, that a valuable horse had been stolen from Mrs. Kearney of that place, and Edward Nunneley, a noted rogue, was missing, and to look out. We at once notified the Chief of Police, who promptly sent out his force. At 6 o'clock, Robert Hart, policeman, had both thief and horse. We are pleased to record such acts of promptness which evidence the efficiency of our city police.

PUBLIC SPEAKING IN JOHNSTON.—Col. Geo. V. Strong and Capt. Samuel Ashe, of this city, addressed a large crowd at Smithfield yesterday in the interests of Greeley and Brown. We are pleased to learn that a good feeling is prevailing at this section, and that the good citizens of Johnston will do their duty on the fifth of November.

PERSONAL.—We noticed in attendance upon the Fair Grounds this week Col. L. D. Starke, President of the Virginia and North Carolina Agricultural Society at Norfolk, Va. The Fair of this Society, which commences Tuesday, will doubtless be a grand success.

THE WORLD'S FAIR

TO BE HELD AT

Raleigh, Thursday, October 24.

OLD JOHN ROBINSON'S

GREAT TRAVELING MUSEUM, MENAGERIE,

CARAVAN, AND HIPPODROME,

COMBINED WITH THE GRAND

International Zoological Garden, Polytechnic Institute

AND MAMMOTH CIRCUS

IN FOUR TO TEN TENTS,

As the space of the Grounds will permit

JOHN ROBINSON, President and Gen. Director,

JOHN ROBINSON, Jr., Manager.

These animals, which have been at a vast expenditure of time and money thoroughly re-organized and equipped for the present traveling season, presents the startling, Novel, Unique and Colossal specimens never before witnessed in the annals of amusement enterprise either in this or any other age, of

TWELVE SUPERIOR SHOWS IN ONE.

All for a Single Price of Admission.

In the collection and organization of the Museum, no expense has been spared in gratifying and enlightening the public by presenting in One vast Assemblage an accumulation of such never before attempted or dreamed of by the combined talent and liberality of all other managers in the world, have been actively employed in procuring curiosities for his great Traveling Show. Some of these were put on exhibition for the first time last year, but they have been largely supplemented for the present season by new acquisitions and consignments brought by almost every steamer from foreign Ports which has arrived in New York for the past eight months.

As an illustration of the Indomitable Energy of the well known Proprietor of this establishment, it may be well to remark that the Exhaustless Resources of Europe,

Asia, Africa and America, with the dispositions of China, Japan, Australia, the Polar Regions, South Sea Islands, Arabia,

Turkey, Spain, Russia, Egypt, the Pacific

Indian and Atlantic Oceans, together with the Red Sea, and Holy Land, have all been leveled into, contributing to swell

the aggregate of this single Department, which, after all, constitutes but a moiety of all that may be seen.

It is estimated that in the Aquarium,

Museum, Menagerie and Caravan there are Twenty-Thousand Curiosities.

This stupendous Combination has been brought together at an actual cost to the Proprietor of more than a million of dollars, which is ten times as much as was invested in a single show. The curiosities of the several departments represent the choicest specimens from the realms of Zoology,

Ornithology, Geology, Ichthyology, Con-

chology, Entomology, Anthropology, Mechanics, Numismatics, Science, Statuary,

Oil Arts, and so classified for this Great Exhibition, that the admiring and instructive eye of the naturalist, and of poets, statesmen, philosophers and divines.

Parents, school and public school teachers should bear in mind that no public exhibition ever instituted in America afforded a fuller of the practical lessons of instruction which have in this Unique Exposition of actual teaching.

To this vast array is added, in a separate colossal Tent capable of holding Ten Thousand People.
